

Health Provider Organisations North Yorkshire

Due to the geography and scale of North Yorkshire, there are a number of health organisations providing a range of services across the county. Although they are all 'health providers' they are separate organisations providing specific services, and they all hold their own health records on a variety of systems.

Each organisation has their own safeguarding team who can be used as a single point of contact if partner agencies need to discuss a child who has accessed services in their organisation or is currently under their care.

The webpage below provides details of each service, and how professionals can contact the safeguarding team.

If it is a medical emergency, call 999

Call 111 if you need medical help but it is not a 999 emergency
